

Transparency in Healing

Dr. Kevin Bethel from Nassau, Bahamas was stunned when one of my nurses told him he was going to have a sinus infection. Scanning him with ONDAMED's patient-specific frequencies, she not only detected his sciatic problem but also an inflammation in his sinuses. "You will have some reaction after this session". Antje added that, "It may take a couple of hours for your lymph system to react". Just hours later Bethel was discharging fluid and mucous from his sinuses. Once this subsided he felt significant relief.

After attending the 12th Annual World Congress on Anti-Aging in Las Vegas in December 2004, Bethel became interested in the most promising biophysical feedback devices to enter the U.S. market in decades.

Bethel's enthusiasm, and frankly excitement, could be heard in his voice during a conference call I had with he and other physicians a week later.

Working with biophysics for almost 6 years now, I am frequently invited to present empirical facts in many different locations, both in Europe and in the United States.

On November 2, 2004 (Election Day and the day my family received permanent residency in the United States) I was honored to speak about biophysics for an hour on WBAI Radio in New York, located in the Empire State Building.

"Why ONDAMED?" asked Dr. Sherman, from Ontario Canada.

All the others (Steven Harris, DC, Alberta, Canada, Mirko, Ontario, Canada, Tal Lally, Los Angeles, and Dr. Bethel) listened carefully to me as I began to answer them from Barnesville, Georgia:

"It is very simple to understand." I replied. "As you all know, the problem in healing is the non responding patient. Frustration from the patient and the therapist has been my daily partner for over 32 years of practicing medicine. Tinnitus, Glaucoma, Rheumatism, Fibromyalgia, Chronic Fatigue, Atrial Fibrillation, Allergies, Asthma, Intestinal Diseases or Depression always beg the same questions:

"Do you understand where the condition or disease has come from?" Followed by, "How do you go about treating this condition?"

In most cases neither the therapist nor the patient have the slightest clue of its origin or even the interconnectivity of such problems.

Using the ONDAMED, however, I would find the interconnected inflammatory or blocked sites within minutes. On my Tinnitus patient, for instance, I found specific reactions in his neck, sinuses, left ear, and the right kidney with a frequency relating to the small intestine.

In a heartbeat I have achieved a very comprehensive approach to address the patient. Immediately I can say, "Your Tinnitus is related to dysfunctions of the small intestine, neck, left ear, and right kidney.

Consequently several therapeutic steps were taken:

First: I apply the patient's specific biophysical frequencies to these areas where blockages and stagnation were detected.

Second: Since the small intestine is involved. I evaluate key food intolerances such as dairy, wheat, gluten, and sugar.

Third: I need to scroll through ONDAMED's micro-organism module, as we know an imbalance of parasites, viruses, candida, fungus, and bacteria can impair function of the small intestine. In this case the patient's pulse responded to candida and we needed to apply candida specific frequencies.

Fourth: I consider natural medication for the kidneys, the ears, the small intestine, and the neck, including osteopathic methods.

Fifth: I scroll through the ONDAMED's 173 preset biofeedback programs. These are programs that have been shown to be effective in dealing with a variety of problems (Central Nervous System issues, Cardiovascular issues, Digestive problems, Musculoskeletal problems, etc.). The patient's pulse response dictates the program that is being applied. In this case it was number 40 (a lymph program). I then place a second specialized applicator on the greatest reaction area found by pulse feedback where the therapeutic frequencies are being transmitted to that area.

Such a protocol is not only beneficial for the patient, but also for the therapist as she/he will have clear data to approach and explain the interconnectivity of the health disorder to the patient. This builds trust between the patient and therapist and allows the two parties to approach the condition as an alliance, rather than adversaries, as often happens when the aforementioned frustration is present. This device has changed the face of my clinic.

"How long do I need to be trained?" asked Dr. Sherman.

It takes about 2 days to become capable of working independently with patients." I replied, "Although I delegate this to a technician. That way I am able to keep other aspects of my practice running smoothly"

For about 25 years the inventor Rolf Binder has been involved in intensive research and innovation of medical devices, leading into the development of this astounding technology. Looking back a hundred years ago, X-ray was discovered, which is a kind of electromagnetic wave. Fifty years later some scientist proposed to take images of the electromagnetic emissions of the cells of our body. These people were declared idiots. Since 1970's, however, the MRI has become routine in our hospitals. For 25 years specific EM waves have been applied very effectively as biofeedback to the ailing patient using such devices as the ONDAMED. These specific induction-waves stimulate a very specific response interacting with the controlling life fields of our cells.

Remember, that the world of healing is inherently correlated with our culture and philosophy. Both our Asian and Greek cultures argue that there are forces that are superior to the organs yet are responsible for organ function. Pythagoras stated that, in forming matter there is always a mathematical rhythm (physics). The mathematical algorithms of the ONDAMED join the most modern research of Persinger (1995) that stated there was an "algorithmic electromagnetic remote control of every human brain". Also remember Becker and Seldon (1985) allowed a frog to re-grow an amputated leg by changing the electro-magnetic field around the frog, much the same way a salamander does.

"In order to consider your own healing tomorrow, you must sense that not until disease is understood as a status and not a monster. Then, and only then, will we touch the soul of the problem. Disease seems to be a vital process and a sequence of phenomena that are running on an energetic level." – Proceso S. Ortega 🌸
